

The Rebel Speaks

GOVERNMENT ANTAGONIST AND HUGUENOT

A plague is upon us, without warning or mercy. We, as Americans, are used to adversity and will overcome. Like General George Patton once said, "Americans love a good fight!"

Be not afraid my friends, for we now stand together on the bridge. Time to take the volley and volley back until the enemy can no longer be found among us! Trump has been on top of this since it started. On the news every day—himself—he is a real leader while Nancy P.P. and the Democraps stand in the way, as usual. I wonder what Nancy and Charlie will do if they end up with the virus, "A?" While standing in the way of the rest of us, they have unlimited funds for the best physicians and meds that we are not privy to. I'm sure Nancy would share if asked! Like, not! She and Schumeroid are amongst the most self-serving humans on the planet. They could give a democrap if we live or die. Avarice their game, greed their name.

We, as Americans, need to continue to back Trump. He is our country's leader and Nancy and Charlie are our downfall.

Time for this old Reb to Ride!

"So, the sun is up, Mr. Harris, and there are about thirty Kiowa warriors on horseback waiting, for some reason, outside the house!"

"What the hay, Captain?"

"Not sure, Mr. Harris. Why don't you wake the two Bobs and I'll go outside and see if I can figure it out. Wake the boys in the bunkhouse, but... god, oh, god... don't do a damn thing until I say to! I want to finish that house, you know what I mean, 'A?' Mr. Harris?"

"Aye, Captain! I know what you mean! I'll act natural, so to speak."

"You do that! There is no telling that they want!"

See you on the bridge!

P.S. Where did Bite-me Joe go? Is Bernie in hiding? Where did they go? Not a word from these Democraps in two weeks. Did they leave the planet on Shirley McClain's alien friend's space ship?

P.S.P.S. This country's last real pandemic was the Spanish flu, which devastated much of the world from 1918 to 1920. There was no national concerted effort to control the disease.

Businesses were forced to shut down; basic services such as mail and trash collection stopped altogether. There were often not enough farm workers to harvest crops. Even state and local health departments closed down. While the first wave in early 1918 was mild, with most recovering and a low death rate, the second wave became highly contagious in the fall of the same year. Victims died within hours or a few days of getting symptoms. Entire families were wiped out. Funeral homes were overwhelmed. To make matters worse, many state and local officials were, at least at first, in complete denial of reality and there was no Federal coordinated effort to inform the public or assist the states in doing so. That is pandemonium. What we have today is leadership and large corporations taking steps—car makers turning into ventilator makers. Face mask makers going into overdrive, making over a million masks a day. Alcohol makers shifting gears to make hand sanitizer. Companies stepping up to make the difference that is needed. THAT is American ingenuity at it's best. This virus has, as Japanese Admiral Yamamoto said after bombing Pearl Harbor, "awakened a sleeping giant." United we stand.
